Going to fight for freedom but want a hotel room? Take a tent, winter camping.

Hotel is a luxury in war.

Yes. I used to be one of those dirty hippie prog types my whole life... dude, I am telling you... God and your fellow brothers and sisters will provide. People are going into this with a "pool your resources" attitude. No one is leaving til the fat lady has sung. Take something you can trade. As you are on your way over, just put out feelers everywhere. Talk to people who look like maybe they want to talk. When you find people you click with, stay with them... ask for the help you need without expectation or shame. People enjoy helping eachother.

There is ZERO chance you end up sleeping on the street. Hippies do shit like this all the time. If you can, take a compact tent so that you can offer to just use someone's land for the night if you can't find a place indoors... but even that probably wouldn't happen. Especially if you bring something to the table that you can share... even if its just a giant bag of beef jerky, just bring what you can and be flexible and relax. You will be fine.

Don't be weird about it when you ask around, and then it won't be weird. Some people who are going are HARD partiers, there is nothing weird or wrong with asking around for a place to crash. Just be sociable with people, don't shut strangers out. Be open and honest and people will read that off of you and respond.

Channel your inner dirty hippy.

I am a defector from the left, when they fucked over muh bern in '16. And I have to say, progs and libs are more spontaneous. Sometimes there is no plan per se... just go anyway.

Like a Rainbow gathering... don't have any money? Or food? Just bring 3 bottles of vodka, and GO ANYWAY. Don't have a tent? SO WHAT, FUCK IT. Don't have a clue how youre going to get back home? BIG DEAL.

Seems sometimes like more of the MAGA who came from the Republican side need to have every little thing scheduled in at work, planned in every detail, and completely paid for. Which normally is a really good trait.... but it makes it hard to get republicanMAGA to just ditch it all and SHOW UP somewhere. This time GEOTUS demanded it, so it will happen, but I'm seeing a lot of anxiety about planning that a bunch of hippies would NOT be stressing whatsoever.

permalink parent save report block reply

▲ 5 ▼

= Ragnar Danneskjold 5 points 18 hours ago +5 / -0

Yeah, caution is wise, but we also don't want to end up being a million individuals all huddled in our basements alone thinking every sound outside is an ATF agent or Antifag out to get us. Organization and common purpose and planning is the only way to win anything. That's been true for thousands of years and it's still true now. No one wins anything by themselves. If we're all too scared that everyone else except for ourselves is secretly the enemy that we're paralyzed into inaction, we might as well fucking give up already.

I want to believe you and want to support, I really do. Unfortunately its too easy to take advantage of people in this world.

The same story could be used by someone that showed up in DC without booking a hotel only to realize the occupancy rate is 99% and all the vacant rooms are now $500 a night.

If you booked a hotel, and have paid for it, then its easy to get behind and support.

Just go man. Sleeping in a car is mildly uncomfortable, but it's an option if it comes down to it and it's like like you'll be doing it forever. It's an adventure, expect some crazy experiences like that. Just make sure you bring a lot of blankets, warm socks, thermal underwear pants, etc. I slept in my car a few times when making cross country trips when I was too miserly to pay for a hotel. It's not that bad. And Washington's troops were sleeping on the ground in the snow. Bundled up in your backseat with 4 or 5 thrift store blankets and a sweatshirt is a walk in a park compared to that. You'll look back on it and smile with an interesting story to tell.

A LOT of people will be camping on the National Mall.

A LOT. I am sleeping in a vehicle, myself.

Buy or borrow a cheap pup tent., Hell, roll up in a tarp. Bring a folding camp chair, and a foil space blanket.

Soldiers sleep in a foxhole. Be homeless for a couple days. It is an adventure. The crazier your arrangements are, the better the story will be... because for the rest of your life, you'll be telling it!

"Minecraft" is used as a euphemism for violent rebellion against the authorities. The idea is that if you use a widely-understood euphemism to describe your planning, then it works like a magical spell that prevents the feds from prosecuting you.

So a "minecraft site" is, in the user's mind, his own node in a network of leaderless violent rebellion. Very cool.

So what he means in reality is that he'll be sitting in a tent under an overpass in a suburb somewhere, in 45 degree weather, listening on a radio to the news from other guys in tents under other overpasses. But he'll have a firearm, or at least a baton and some zip ties! Very cool.

Then he'll get out the twelve-sided dice, and decide whether he wants to be an elf or an orc today ...

If January 6 is going to achieve anything at all, it'll be thanks to another sort of man.

Good luck with your arrangements.

Many thanks for the explanation, boss. I'm not going to DC because I know myself too well. I'd end up in jail or the ER. So, I'm going to watch it remote. Greatest respect for the pedes that go out there and stand up for our rights though. I have faith that our fellow Pedes and President Trump will get us through this crisis, partly because the alternative is unimaginable.

It's so hard to keep up...I'm afraid to go to sleep, because I'll wake up several hours later and be totally out of the loop again. Sigh.

Sorry, pede. I'm pretty clueless. I have a hard time keeping up. I know minecraft is a video game my neighbor plays. Other than that, I have no idea what they're talking about when they mention Minecraft, and how it relates to our fearless leader's plans on Jan 6th. :P

I found this earlier on Twitter. I'm not entirely sure of it's legitimacy, so you'll have to look into it a bit deeper than I did, but I think it could really be of use to you. I think it's legit, but I haven't looked too much into it. Good luck and God bless <https://joyinliberty.com/>

Why don't you guys pool your money and rent a convention center? It could probably host a hundred people or more bunking on the floor in sleeping bags. I don't know if it's legal or not, but weren't they turning convention centers into makeshift wards during the first wave of Covid? So it must be okay to sleep in a convention center if they did it for Covid -- but you'd have to check that out. The rally is only 1 day, isn't it? Anybody could sleep on the floor with a sleeping bag one night.
